

Peckar & Abramson, P.C. Achieves Global Multi-Jurisdictional Ranking in Construction Law From Chambers

Peckar & Abramson, P.C. (P&A) is pleased to announce that Chambers and Partners have included P&A in the prestigious 2025 Chambers Global Guide, ranked in construction law in the Global: Multi-Jurisdictional category. With this recognition, P&A stands alone as the first and only firm to be included in this global category while also holding a Band 1 United States nationwide ranking in Construction Law. Notably, P&A's national US recognition in Band 1 represents yet another distinction that only P&A has maintained every year since Chambers USA introduced the US ranking.

While P&A has long been recognized at the national and regional levels, including having received Chambers's most recent "Construction Law Firm of the Year" award, this marks the firm's first-ever global ranking, further reinforcing P&A's leadership and international influence in construction law.

According to Chambers and Partners, the Global Guide ranks the top global lawyers and law firms in over 200+ jurisdictions worldwide. Chambers praised P&A as "a powerhouse construction practice in the USA that is experienced in handling international matters. With an impressive list of clients that includes international developers and contractors, the firm is adept at handling a range of matters." A client noted, "We sought out and retained Peckar & Abramson because of their ability to handle complex, multi-issue construction disputes." P&A's inaugural inclusion in the prestigious global ranking is Band 4.

Firm Chair Steven M. Charney commented, "This prestigious honor reflects our ongoing commitment to excellence in construction law and litigation not only in the United States but globally. This achievement is a testament to the hard work and dedication of our entire team, and we remain focused on delivering exceptional legal services to our clients."
